

MISE EN PLACE

Ann Michael Henry

Ann Michael Henry is the Founder and Chief Effectiveness Expert for Mise En Place—an organization and productivity consulting firm offering clients proven paths to productivity.

An information junkie by nature, Ann Michael has spent her entire professional career helping busy professionals get the information that they need to get their job done. She has worked with Fortune 500 companies, major media organizations, law firms, as well as several other types of companies and has discovered a common theme...the professionals who effectively managed information—whatever the source—are the ones who are the most productive and lead a balanced life.

Everyone needs information and everyone needs to be organized and productive to meet daily demands and customer expectations. It boils down to the ability to apply tips, tools, and proven techniques to an individual's unique work-style. This is where Ann Michael thrives! Her ultimate goal is being there when her clients reach their "ah-ha" moment. Armed with more than a dozen years of observing how people, with all types of responsibilities, manage their workload, combined with an innate ability to organize and prioritize, Ann Michael has developed a proven way to help anyone find and master their path to productivity.
